

Preliminary steps have been taken for the organization of the Nebraska Agricultural Council, intended to promote closer co-operation between the various farm organizations in the state. This action was taken at a meeting in Omaha attended by John Pearson, of the Midwest Milk Producers Association, Omaha; J. W. Shortbill, secretary of the Farmers Co-operative Grain and Livestock association; C. J. Osborne, president of the Nebraska Farmers' union; H. D. Lute, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau federation and E. L. Shoemaker, secretary of the National Co-operative company of Omaha. Another meeting will be called soon to effect a permanent organization. Voting power in the council will be confined to the membership of the boards of these various organizations. The governing board to be composed of one member for each organization. Legislature, education, transportation, co-operative buying and selling, agricultural financing and production of farm products will be promoted by the council.

A while back Ole Buck and Old Man Young were down in St. Joe, I don't claim to know what for, but along toward evening Buck got a headache and went to his room. Later Mr. Young came in all keyed up to go to some doings or other and wanted to borrow Ole's dress suit for the occasion. He got it but as he was getting ready he found that he was short a collar button and asked Ole for his. Ole said he didn't have any and Old Man Young thought he was trying to be mean and gave him a good scolding. Ole stood it as long as he could and then got up and pulling the neck of his pajamas open, showed O. M. Y. that he had a wart on the back of his neck that he buttoned his collar onto on the rare occasions when he wears one. Apologies were in order.—Ord Quiz.

Members of the Sidney Oil company received a wire yesterday morning telling of another big well which had been brought in on their lease. They began selling oil this week. This lease lies close to the National Drilling company's lease and is a very fine lease.—Sidney Enterprise.

Note—The Sidney Oil company was recently organized by Sidney capitalists. The holdings referred to above are in the Osage field near Newcastle, Wyoming.)

According to the Sidney Enterprise the place of Paul Martin, who recently resigned as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at that place, has been filled by the appointment of Morely Pearson.

Ed. H. Reid went to Alliance Sunday night to attend the annual meeting of the Western Nebraska Live Stock association. J. L. Sandford also attended, coming from Missouri for that purpose, both Mr. Reid and Mr. Sandford being members of the executive committee. Bob Graham of Alliance was re-elected president and Ed. H. Reid was elected vice president, while both Reid and Sandford were retained on the executive committee. Alliance, Scottsbluff and Hyannis asked for the next convention. The committee designated Hyannis as the place for the convention next year. Mr. Reid returned home Wednesday but Mr. Sandford is staying to take in the race meet.—Mitchell Index.

The Guernsey dam, assuring one of the greatest power plants in the entire west and sufficient storage water to bring under irrigation thousands of acres of the finest agricultural land in the nation, will no doubt be the next project in Wyoming, was the theme of an address delivered by Andrew Weiss, project manager of the reclamation service, before the Lions club Wednesday. The new project will be undertaken just as soon as the money is available in a sufficient amount to justify beginning the undertaking, and this condition is expected to be not long delayed. With the construction of this dam a source of power is to be created that will not only furnish light and power to all the towns in the Platte valley, but will be sufficient to operate electric railways that in ten years might connect all the cities in this part of the country and bear the produce from the farm.—Lingle Review.

Plans for immediate construction of the state highway between Alliance and Broadwater, to connect with the Lincoln highway at Ogallala, were outlined at a meeting of chamber of commerce officials and a delegation of fifteen good roads boosters from Broadwater, says a dispatch from Alliance. The proposed route will run from Broadwater past the Murphy and and navy. I believe not only in disarmament by agreement, but I believe the United States can afford to set the example and should not, while preaching disarmament, enormously increase its appropriations for army and navy.

There is one great reform that the state of Nebraska needs and the long felt should be supplied by whatever powers have that authority. Nebraska needs a new coat of arms with which to properly embellish the Great Seal and one to which the humblest citizen can point with pride. The present device is very inartistic and furthermore it bears false witness against the state. As nearly as can be stated in terms of heraldry, the present coat of arms consists of a village blacksmith rampant on a field of wheat; a side-wheel steamboat couchant upon mud puddle and an emigrant train dormant upon a jerkwater railroad. We have often wondered what the artist's idea was in having his blacksmith move his anvil out into the middle of a wheat field and then picture him in the act of striking while the iron is hot with no forge in sight with which to heat it. We need a new coat of arms. Let the boast of heraldry assert itself and let us have a coat of arms of which we can all be proud and that will be a thing of beauty and a joy for all to come.—Allan D. May in the Auburn Republican.

A. J. KEARNS, Pastor.
We append herewith the reply of the Hon. G. M. Hitchcock, U. S. senator from Nebraska, concerning the disarmament program in which so many of you have signified your interest:

My dear Mr. Kearns:
I acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 6th, enclosing a petition signed on disarmament day by members of your church in support of the plan to call a conference of leading nations on disarmament at the earliest possible date, and favoring a reduction of the enormous appropriations for war preparations. I am very glad that you have taken this action.
I am a strong advocate of Senator Borah's attempt to bring about an immediate conference between the United States, Japan and Great Britain as the leading nations of the world. If they can agree on naval disarmament it will be an enormous stimulus to a conference of all the nations for a world wide disarmament. I think the United States should lead the way and set the example, and I am unalterably opposed to the enormous appropriation bills that have been proposed for the army

Yours very truly,
G. M. HITCHCOCK,
U. S. S.
